For this week, we have an exercise meant to show the level of planning and analysis involved in preparing for a migration. What you'll find in the exercise is each of the 6 Rs for migrating applications; they'll match what we covered in the previous modules. Go through and try arranging the steps. When you get the order correct and submit, the site will tell you that you're right. It's okay if it takes you several tries. The exercise is meant to show that migrations should not be taken lightly, and require a lot of investment long before your first migration action is taken.
